LARGE SUBSCRIPTION

Made yesterday to the American Red Cross—Over Thirty-Five Hundred Dollars Already Subscribed.

The campaign now on in our city in behalf of the National Red Cross hundred million dollar fund is now moving forward to a certain consummation to the desired end. The purchase of Liberty Bonds was an investment and anyone able to buy one has now an asset with an assured dividend as good as gold. It was no patriotism to buy a Liberty Bond. Only by acts of self denial, self sacrifice and a devotion to a cause constitute patriotism. The mere fact that we hurl at the waving flag does not amount to anything other than a form of bravado to stand when America is sung is but an act of outward show and unless the doing to the death rests within the heart of the individual these are but tinkling symbols and sounding brass.

Now we have a chance to begin to show our devotion to that noble flag which is today seen fluttering from every pinnacle or upon the lapel of nearly every individual. In the effort to raise a sum for the Red Cross we are being born to the spirit which will carry to the point of enthusiasm knowing no bounds. We are at war. The mighty Imperial German Government is moving as one mighty machine and unless every true American arouses himself to realize his danger we are in imminent peril and stand in jeopardy every day. Give to the Red Cross. Give liberally to the committee and remember you are going to be called upon to give again. Therefore prepare your mind and prepare your heart and give not grudgingly but cheerfully and esteem it a privilege in order that we may follow the great truth, "Beware of entrance in to a quarrel; but, being in, bear thyself that thine enemy may beware of thee."

The committee appointed Monday night at the meeting at the High School yesterday afternoon spent about 2 hours in canvassing for the fund. In that time $1465.00, almost four-fifths of the amount allotted to Mason county, and this sum representing what has come from Maysville alone. The efforts of the workers have been met with splendid success.

Following the splendid meeting of Monday Mr. W. W. Ball, Jr., secretary of the Mason County Chapter of the Red Cross, telephoned the result of the meeting to W. R. Lunk, secretary of the War Council. He received the following telegram in reply:

"War Council heartily congratulates Maysville on first report, keep it up and success is yours."

This morning Mr. Ball received another telegram from Mr. Luuk as follows:

"War Council congratulates Maysville on the patriotism her citizens are showing by the generous response and knows they will not stop until they have exceeded their goal."

Last night during the intermission being the first and second parts of the great picture "Civilization" at the Washington Opera House, a collection was taken amount to $112.74. Mr. A. G. Suiter of the Maysville Water Co., spoke a few moments concerning the needs of the Red Cross.

Thursday 2 p. m. Washington Presbyterian Church. Everybody urged to come. The time President Wilson set

CENTENNIAL CLOSES

At the First Presbyterian Church Last Night After Three Days of Celebration—Dr. W. C. Condit of Ashland and the Rev. Horace Wilson of Lansing, Mich., Speakers.

The last service of the Centennial Celebration was a very fine one. The attendance was large notwithstanding the storm that threatened—an evidence of the general interest in the speakers and the occasion. Dr. Condit opened by a presentation of the true grandeur of a church, the saving and training of men by the presence of God dwelling in the church. He told of his intimate knowledge of the Maysville church since his childhood. His father, the honored Rev. John H. Condit of Washington had been a classmate of Dr. Grundy at Princeton. He had come to this section six months before Dr. Grundy and for years their home had been side by side and very intimate. They had known as house-hold talk of Dr. Grundy's trials and struggles growing out of his courageous nature which was always challenging evil somewhere. He remembered their often slipping down Sunday evening when they had a service to attend the Maysville church. Dr. McClung too, who succeeded him remembered vividly. He described the re-appearance of Dr. McClung in the Presbytery to ask reordination. The moderator had asked him to tell of the years when he had been in darkness of doubt and retired from the ministry. As the impressive face and figure of Dr. McClung stood before them all he was in our sister city of Vincennes to night to assist in the organization of a Red Cross Chapter at that place. The citizens of the Vincennes have shown much interest in the formation of a chapter there and a large number of members will doubtless be secured.

ARE WE CIVILIZED?

No one attending the wonderful play, "Civilization" at the Washington Opera House last night, could have failed to have been thrilled by the wonderful scenes shown on the screen. War and all of its horrors were shown with a startling reality.

The picture is a splendid argument for peace and has a splendid moral for every one. Many who saw the picture took the moral to be for the rulers of nations, but this is not so. The moral is for every man, woman and child and he is indeed lacking in mental powers that cannot see the great teaching of the picture. Every person in Maysville should see this picture tonight, the last chance to do so.

REMEMBER

Tomorrow, Thursday morning, at 10 o'clock on the premises, the sale of the Caldwell property at 1023 East Second street will take place. This property is splendidly located, modern home, with an abundance of ground extending to the river and should prove very attractive to any one desiring Maysville real estate, either as a home or investment.

WILL AID IN ORGANIZATION

Hon. W. D. Cochran of this city will be in our sister city of Vincennes to night to assist in the organization of a Red Cross Chapter at that place. The citizens of the Vincennes have shown much interest in the formation of a chapter there and a large number of members will doubtless be secured.

POLLITT-BULLOCK

Mr. Arthur E. Pollitt, 23, and Miss Jennie Curtis Bullock, 23, both of the Orangeburg neighborhood, were granted a license to wed yesterday by County Clerk J. J. Owens. They will be married today by the Rev. A. F. Stahl, pastor of the Christian Church.

SUNDAY SCHOOL PICNIC

The Sunday School of the Central Presbyterian Church will have their picnic tomorrow, Thursday. The autos will leave the church at 8:30 and 9 o'clock. All members of the Sabbath School and congregation are invited.

MAYSVILLE MAN

In Aboard U. S. Steamer Sunk by German Submarine on Last Saturday—G. C. Wilkins From This City Among Crew.

The Cincinnati Times-Star last night carried the following story:

The name of Wilkins does not appear in either the city or county directory. It is said that he was home several weeks ago visiting his mother who lives in Eastland.

New York, June 19.—There were two Ohioans and one Kentuckian in the crew of the Standard oil tank steamer John D. Archbold, which, it is announced, was sunk by a German submarine last Saturday. The vessel was two days out from a French port and en route to the United States.

The ship was armed and a gunner's crew from an American warship was on board. Three of the ship's crew were killed and two drowned. The names of three of the men are Jose Loreuzo, an older; Gregorio, a fireman, and Domingo Lago, a whaler.

The John D. Archbold was an American steamship of 8,374 tons gross register, owned by the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey and built in 1914 at Newport News. The ship left here May 20 for Havre and Rouen, France, with cargo under the command of Captain H. B. Thompson with a crew of 41 men, of whom twelve were Americans.

The records of the U. S. Commissioner of Shipping here show the following names among the crew whose American citizenship was claimed at the time of signing on. W. H. Gridley, mate, Park Gate, building, Chicago.

KEEPING BIRTH RECORDS

There is one thing every father and mother in Maysville and Mason county owe their children—a clean certificate of birthright.

Every child born in the world today is entitled to have its name recorded in the office of the State registrar of vital statistics over at Frankfort. The father or mother are possibly not to blame for those who now bump shoulders with the world to find that in many instances a registered certificate of birth is of as great importance as a certificate of marriage. In days gone by the family Bible was considered all-sufficient. And in those days people took other people's word for many things that fail to go unquestioned now.

Today it is different. The child born into the world now is entitled to have its name recorded in the big "Kentucky family bible" at the capital of the State. In fact, there is a law in the State of Kentucky that makes it mandatory upon the attending physician to register births. In Ohio there has been several instances wherein physicians have treated this law lightly, and in several instances they have been called to account, with the result that at least two of them came dangerously near forfeiting their license to practice medicine.

It is to be hoped that the physicians of Maysville and Mason county will look at this law in the light it deserves. Special agents of the United States census bureau are here now investigating to see if all babies born are being promptly and properly registered. Birth registration is of vital interest to our welfare and the welfare of our country in coming years. Military conditions now arising shows plainly the need of a clean certificate of birth. The public demands it; the parents prefer it; the babies born are entitled to it, and the Ledger sincerely hopes that every physician in Maysville and Mason county will not be lax in their duties now or at any future time.

Writing from Lexington to the Cincinnati Enquirer, Governor Stanley's press agent states that the Governor is preparing to go about the State interfering in the various county races and urging Democratic voters at the primary to put none but Stanley men on guard. This is a good thing for Kentucky Democrats to know. Governor Stanley proposes to make war upon all Democrats who will not pledge themselves to him for Senator three years hence. If this good politics the Ledger is mistaken.

INFANTILE PARALYSIS EPIDEMIC
OF 1916 REAPED TERRIBLE TOLL

New York, June 17—An official report of the 1916 epidemic of infantile paralysis, made public by the Department of Health here tonight showed that from June to November of that year there were 6,000 deaths from the disease in the United States registration and more than 27,000 cases. New York being the greatest sufferer. In the five years, 1910 to 1914, the United States Census Bureau recorded only 5,000 deaths.

The report covers thoroughly the entire history of the disease from the time of its discovery by the German physician, Heine, in 1840, up to the studies of the late epidemic, which indicated that the most valuable means of diagnosis was the laboratory examination of spinal fluid.

Serum treatment is referred to extensively in the report, which says on the subject:

"While no absolute judgment of the value of a serum can be based as yet upon the results obtained, they are, nevertheless, encouraging and justify a continuation of the serum treatment in acute poliomyelitis until in the course of time more definite data are available."

GREAT IMPROVEMENT IS SHOWN IN REPORT ON GRAIN SITUATION

New York, June 17—A statement that the grain transportation situation throughout the country shows marked improvement was authorized here to-night by F. S. Harrison, Chairman of the Railroad War Board.

Reports received from the twenty-three principal grain carrying roads, the statement says, show there is comparatively little car shortage affecting grain movements and that there is virtually no disposition on the part of farmers or country elevators to hold back on shipment.

The board's subcommittee on car service has been endeavoring to relieve the grain transportation situation. To learn what this committee had accomplished and at the same time gather information for guidance in the board's plans to handle the 1917 grain crop, inquiries were addressed recently to the grain carrying roads. A summary of the replies, the statement says, shows that the old grain crop is moved before the new crop is ready, that few country elevators are full and that nearly every car ordered for grain is used to capacity for that purpose.

MAYSICK CHAUTAUQUA

The enterprising committee in charge of the Maysick Chautauqua has taken up the work of advertising for this year's entertainment. Yesterday posters giving the attractions were placed in the public places of this city. We predict a most successful meeting which should be attended by all sections of our county. The dates are July 13, 14, 15.

FILMING OF "A RECKLESS ROMEO" LEADS TO MANY AN AMUSING INCIDENT

The making of "A Reckless Romeo", the second Roseo "Fatty" Arbuckle comedy two reels to be released 21st by Paramount Pictures Corporation to all exhibitors was attended with some stirring episodes when the scenes shown in Palisades Amusement Park were being taken. The big amusement resort perched on top of the historic Palisades is a most animated place and there is always more or less excitement there but the presence of Mr. Arbuckle and his company of forecursors provided thrills and sensations that no oratorial "ballyhoo" man could do justice to.

Failure to take one of the Park's policemen into the confidence of the movie actors was responsible for at least two exciting incidents. Officer O'Leary is his name and as might be expected from this cognomen he takes his responsibilities seriously. So, when he saw a person of rural appearance involved in an altercation with the white aproned attendant of an ice cream cone stand he was prompt to act. Apparently the "farmerish" looking individual was trying to "beat" the park merchant out of two succulent cones and that was a misdemeanor of the gravest nature. With club in hand he pounced on the man with more speed than dignity he placed him under arrest. Protestations from the "farmer" that he was none other than Al St. John, famous as the original Keystone cop and therefore entitled to every courtesy from the police, were in vain until O'Leary discovered the camera man busily earning his machine.

But instead of profiting by this experience O'Leary blundered again five or ten minutes later. His eagle eye caught a well groomed stout man in the act of ogling a lady seated on a park bench. Watching him closely O'Leary saw the man slide along the bench and encircle the lady's waist with his arm. That was carrying things altogether too far in a highly respectable park in broad daylight, dazed O'Leary, and the result was a lively mixup. After the combatants were separated, O'Leary learned that the flirtatious one was "Fatty" Arbuckle and that the whole thing had been staged for the edification of moving picture fans. In the meantime footage of highly diverting sort had been piled up and nobody regretted the incident but the vigilante sleuth, who had thus unknowingly contributed his expert and official services gratis in the interests of art.

However, since this experience O'Leary has become very wary and wouldn't interfere even in a murder unless he made sure there was no camera in the neighborhood.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., June 18—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt in an address here to-night in behalf of the Red Cross denounced the sentiment abroad in the United States against "fighting England's War."

"Any man who hates England more than he loves the United States should be thrown from the country," he said. The Colonel demanded that Americans curtail their pleasure for the period of the war and instead give the money they might use in such frivolity to the Red Cross or other relief work.

the Chief Justice, and he married a sister of the distinguished Confederate General Albert Sidney Johnson, the Confederate Leader who lost his life at Shiloh. General Johnson as many know, was a native of Mason County. It was a source of delight to the congregation when he accepted the call, and the short time that he lived in Maysville his congregations were always large, many outsiders attending the services.

He was a man of striking appearance—tall and lithe—a great walker—but a swinging gait and demeanor as he walked that indicated a man who was engrossed with mind problems.

He never wrote his sermons, but spoke with an elegance and freedom and ability that commanded attention. His sermons were never long and so exact was he that he never went beyond his set time even if his discourse had not been completed.

He had a habit of frequently bathing in the River—and on the occasion of one of his vacations he went into the entire pastorate of her husband. Her sweet voice was heard both in this building and at the Chapel in inspiring anthems and hymns—to the delight of the congregation.

Dr. Hays' daughters were the chief factors in the choir after he came to Maysville up to the date of the closing of Hayswood Seminary. There are members in the congregation who remember the choir during this period, so I will defer to the wishes of two of the members of Dr. Hays' family who are present and make no special mention.

I recall many others who have passed to the great beyond whose voices and souls are making melody in the heavenly choir and watching and waiting for the loved ones left behind.

The Maysville Seminary, a combined male and female academy of very high standing was closely identified with the church, both principals, Jacob W. Rand and W. W. Richeson, being officers. In the school the girls and boys were in different rooms. In some of the classes the girls and boys were together, each of the principals teaching these mixed classes—which were called to one or the other room. Mr. Rand had the girl boarders with a few boys, while Mr. Richeson had a number of boys boarding with him at Rosemont.

The officers of the church in this period were as the officers of the church are now, and have been during the two-thirds of a century in which I have known their personnel—men of character and standing in the community and loyal to this church. It would be impossible to even give an outline of these men.

My own father during his entire life was prominent in the Councils of the church, active in the Sunday School here and at the Chapel—had for years and years a Bible Class Sunday afternoon which was largely attended by all ages—attended the Church Courts regularly and told me in his last days that he looked back on his work in the Sabbath School with more pleasure than anything in his life.

Soon after the War the division in the church not only was a calamity to this congregation, but to the proud prestige of Presbyterians all over the State.

When Dr. Grundy accepted a call to Memphis, Tenn., and resigned his charge here, the congregation very unanimously tendered a call to Dr. John A. McClung.

He had been reared in this county—had been a practicing lawyer here. He had at one time become clouded in his religious beliefs and had written a novel which gained wide circulation which gave expression to his doubts. When he recovered from these doubts he was distressed over the circulation of the book and I have heard spent a large sum of money in buying up the copies and destroying them.

He was a man of distinguished intellect—greatly admired. He was a nephew of Chief Justice John Marshall—his mother being the sister of the church.

The congregations during this period were large. Everybody came to church—morning and night—a great many of the heads of families were not members of the church. They used to be jocularly referred to as "brothers-in-law of the church." I remember more than half a dozen prominent citizens in this class—and I have been surprised that they were so punctual in attendance on the services with their families, when many of them were Club Men, some Liquor Dealers and all out of sympathy with Dr. Grundy's ideas. He was outspoken in his denunciation of "dancing and wine and cards."

His position on these subjects caused antagonism in the community and on one occasion he was assaulted in a very cowardly manner by a prominent man, not a member of his church for something he had said in the pulpit, which left scars on his face, which he wore as long as he lived.

Dr. Grundy was aggressive, perfectly fearless and a warrior for any cause he espoused. The discipline in the church during this latter part of his pastorate, and I suppose during all of his pastorate, was very severe. I remember one instance when my sympathies were aroused for a woman who was present, when her husband's expulsion from the church was announced to the congregation. The member who was expelled, was the brother-in-law of the pastor who read the edict.

This splendid house of worship was built in these trying times and under these untoward conditions by a congregation poor in purse but rich in spirit—and stands at this day a monument to their fidelity to the Master and their recognition of their duty to our Heavenly Father.

Andrew M. January, an Elder elected shortly after we came to Maysville in 1852, was the financial bulwark of the congregation (as his descendants are today the main stay of this congregation.) Always at his place in the church and prayer-meetings as long as his health permitted, man of indefatigable energy and generous to a fault to the church, and public-spirited in all matters of city and county—and charitable in his gifts.

I heard Mr. Mike Ryan say that he never knew a subscription of any character in which the name of Andrew M. January did not appear and always for more than anyone else. I remember when at the Chapel they were raising the money to pay off the debt on an enterprising man, Mr. M. J. Chase, recently come to the town and particularly interested in the Fifth Ward announced his subscription a little more than Mr. January had given, when Mr. January heard it, he promptly advanced his own subscription retaining his pre-eminence as the largest giver for all causes.

His son-in-law, Mr. Robert A. Cochran, was recognized as one of the leading spirits and counsellors. He was regular in attendance, generous in contributions and took special interest in all the affairs of the church, conducting for a long time a class of boys in the Sabbath School.

I could refer to other members of the Eldership more specifically, but my paper is already too long. Jacob W. Rand, William W. Richeson, Charles B. Coons, Judge Lewis Collins, Josiah Wilson and Will Huston, whom I never knew, and many others deserve to be mentioned in any history of the church. The Brothers John and Geo. W. Coons, were often in the pulpit. Mr. George Coons was a standby and at times occupied the pulpit as stated supply. They were brothers of Charles B. Coons and of Mrs. Samuel L. Blaine, the mother of John E. Blaine, present with us today, a woman of great force of character and energy and devoted to this church and all its interests and a valued teacher in the Sabbath School.

I will add the name of another good woman, Mrs. Charles B. Ryan, for whom an East Indian girl who had been selected by the foreign missionaries was named—Martha Ryan. This girl was a ward of our Sabbath School—the school for many years contributing to her support $25 a year. I never knew what became of her.

I could speak of scores of others, the Brodricks, the Schulte women, the Walters, Barrs, Stones, Richeson, Mc-Granaghans, Mother Linn and the an- fords, Woods, Wallingfords, Smiths, Simpons and many, many more.

The choir in my boyhood days was a great feature, as it has always been in this congregation.

Mr. Mike Ryan, as he was always known by everybody, was leader. He had a fine baritone voice. It used to be said of him he could whistle two parts of a tune at the same time.

Miss Lucy Rand and Miss Haddie January, afterward Mrs. R. A. Cochran, Mr. Rand and the older Seaton and later the Sharpes and younger Seaton and the sisters of Mrs. John Seaton, the Arthur girls, as we all knew them, Miss Charlotte Peers and many others, not forgetting Miss Lucy Cox, now the venerable Mrs. Lucy M. Keith, were members of the choir at that time, while the organ, the old sweet instrument which it was thought could not be surpassed which had been in the fire at the old church and had been carefully taken down and carried out by the loving hands of the members—the dear old instrument still doing service in the Presbyterian Church at Flemingsburg, Kentucky.

Mr. Geo. W. Blatterman was the organist and his playing was greatly admired. I remember his improvised interludes. It was a matter of sincere regret when he removed to Chicago.

In another presence I might speak of the choir at later dates.

It would be impossible to even give an outline of these men.

This brings to mind the frequent visits of Dr. John M. Worrall to this congregation when he conducted great many meetings. He was for many years the pastor of the Covington Presbyterian Church. He was a man of attractive personality—genial countenance—a mellow voice—a fine pulpit orator—persuasive and kindly in his appeals and many laurels were added to his crown in his ministrations. In this congregation, he was a favorite here, both as a man and as a preacher. He made many of his engagements. I remember how he had to nurse his throat and how my mother, who was an expert in brewing egg-nog, frequently had a glass at his plate at the morning meal—a more agreeable medicine, than is usually administered to the preachers for their ailments in these prohibition times.

The officers of the church in this period were as the officers of the church are now, and have been during the two-thirds of a century in which I have known their personnel—men of character and standing in the community and loyal to this church. It would be impossible to even give an outline of these men.

Mr. Rand's boarders and family occupied seats in the church where the organ now stands on the Court street side of the pulpit, while the January and Schultz families had the pews on the other side. A part of the exercises of the school was to have the pupils take down the Sunday morning sermon. When the whole school assembled for prayers on Monday morning, these transcripts were read. It was a good exercise enforcing the attention of the pupils and fastening the sermons in their minds.
